

Abstract of the Disclosure

A device for users with sequels of central nervous system affections and/or locomotorium affection of a body has a plurality of modules covering areas of the user's body, a recliner with bands for embracing shoulder joints, a structure for correcting a medium area of the user's body, a structure for correcting lower extremities of the user's body, a structure for correcting feet of the user's body, as well as correction rotating elements and connecting elements.